“ A memory that stands out so much for me is SHORTLY after Patti had her bowel surgery and was feeling better she wanted to go water tubing.. Adam got his boat out and towed Patti and I around the lake on two tubes.. The laughter we had at two old ladies bouncing around the lake was incredible.. What made it even funnier is that Patti yelled she was losing her top and didnt want to let go because she knew she would never be able to climb back up on the tube if she fell off...OH I LAUGH even remembering it now..... There was also a time that she decided to have a party in front of her trailer and Sam was going to do the music as the DJ.. People were having the time of their lives and dancing on the ground and up on the deck ...jumping and moving.... ONLY the next day to find a HUGE swarm of bees under the deck that could of caused a lot of trouble for a bunch of us tipping our glasses a little to much... You will be sadly missed..... May you soar with the angels and enjoy all the sky activities.... I will look at the clouds now and picture you bouncing from one cloud to another to find the perfect one to relax on.....Rest in Peace Patti..... we love you!
